VisionAlaska Christian Radio

Partnering with other ministries multiplies the effects of ministry. VisionAlaska has enjoyed a partnership with Voice For Christ Ministries (VFCM) for a number of years in Christian radio. VFCM has shared facilities and radio resources with VisionAlaska to bring Christian radio into Alaskan villages.

Recently Mike Arena, (left) VFCM Executive Director, Roger Holl (middle), Executive Director of VisionAlaska, and Palmer Baily (right), Director of VisionAlaska Christian Radio, met in Anchor Point, Alaska to discuss the future of Christian radio in Alaska. Mike and Palmer are dedicated to reaching people with the word of God. They put Christian radio stations where there are no other Christian radio stations. This missional outreach serves the far-ranging Bush communities throughout Alaska. Christian radio is most likely heard in nearly every home in those villages which has a radio.

VisionAlaska now has Christian radio stations in Scammon Bay and Saint Mary's. Both of these villages have about 600 people and are Yupik villages. The broadcasting booth for VisionAlaska Christian Radio is in the hub village of Bethel.

Please pray that our FCC License application for a new station in the village of Kiana would be granted. Bringing Moody Christian radio into these homes affords a rare opportunity for many of these people to hear great preaching and Christian music.

Application of Arctic Barnabas Ministries as a Cooperating Ministry of the Charis Fellowship

VisionAlaska has been the missionary arm of the Charis Fellowship in Alaska. But God is not limited and has made a way forward to have our Charis Fellowship be even more effective throughout Alaska. VisionAlaska worked with the Leadership Team and the Charis Fellowship Membership Team to assist Arctic Barnabas in their application for status as a Cooperating Ministry in our Charis Fellowship. As of July 2023 the news came from the Charis Fellowship that 100 % of the delegates voted to approve Arctic Barnabas a new Cooperating Ministry of the Charis Fellowship.

We have a history of Charis Fellowship missionaries, who have dedicated years of service to Arctic Barnabas. Arctic Barnabas encourages missionaries through flying and service projects to support and provide much needed practical help and spiritual encouragement to missionaries throughout Alaska.

Recently, Jason Maust, a flying missionary serving with Arctic Barnabas, flew out a group of 7 interns to paint the radio building in Bethel, Alaska. The building houses broadcast studios for VFCM and VisionAlaska

Christian Radio. VisionAlaska wants to give a big Thank You to Arctic Barnabas and all their missionaries and interns for encouraging ministries and missionaries throughout Alaska. This kind of project indicates the tremendous logistics and personnel issues, which arise for any kind of project which remote missionaries face in Alaska.
